GLOSSARY FOR THE UNINFORMED

BAGEL (pronounced: "bay-gull"): A glazed, baked ring-shaped roll with a tough, chewy texture

BLINTZ (pronounced: "blin-ts"): A rolled pancake, similar to a crepe, typically filled with cheese and topped with fruit

BORSCHT (pronounced: "bor-sht"): A Russian beet-based hot or cold soup, served with sour cream

BUREKAS (pronounced: "bor-ekas"): A baked pastry in Sephardic Jewish cuisine typically made with feta cheese filling in a puff pastry or filo dough

BRISKET (pronounced: "brisk-it"): A cut of beef from the breast or lower chest of the animal, full of flavor, tenderized by slow cooking

BUBBE (pronounced: "buh-bee"): Grandmother

CHALLAH (pronounced: "ha-lah"): A braided loaf of yeast-leavened egg bread, glazed with eggs before baking

EGG CREAM (pronounced: "eg-kream"): A cold drink made with milk, U-Bet chocolate syrup, and soda water

FAMISHT (pronounced: "fah-misht"): Stressed to the point of the confusion, even meshugena

FLANKEN (pronounced: "flank-en"): Very similar to short ribs

GEFILTE (pronounced: "geh-fill-ta"): A ball- or oval-shaped mixture of finely chopped pieces of fish, crumbs, eggs, and seasonings, cooked in a broth and served cold

KAHASHA (pronounced: "kah-shah"): A type of cereal made of crushed buckwheat or oats, roasted, then soaked and simmered

KAHASHA VARNISHKAS (pronounced: "kah-shah varnish-kiss"): Kasha mixed with bow-tie egg noodles

KIPPERED SALMON (pronounced: "kip-errd sam-in"): Salted and smoked salmon

KISHKA (pronounced: "keh-nish"): A baked (sometimes fried) dough filled with cheese, meat, potato, or vegetable

KREPLACH (pronounced: "krep-lac"): A rounded triangular-shaped shell made of dough and filled with meat, potato or vegetable, much like a Chinese wonton

KUGEL (pronounced: "koo-gull"): A baked pudding of noodles or potatoes, eggs, and seasonings

KVETCH (pronounced: "kve-tch"): Complain

LATKE (pronounced: "laht-ka"): Fried potato pancake

MACHER (pronounced: "mach-er"): A powerful person. Of course, at Wolfie's, everyone's a Macher, but we're referring to a powerful sandwich.

MATZO (pronounced: "maht-sa"): Brittle, flat unleavened bread; like a cracker

MATZO BALL (pronounced: "maht-sa bawl"): Sometimes called "kneydl," a soup dumpling made from a mixture of matzo meal, eggs, water, and oil, or chicken fat

MATZO BREI (pronounced: "maht-sa bry"): Broken pieces of matzoh mixed with eggs and pan fried; can be served in the form of scrambled eggs or in the shape of a pancake

MESHUGENA (pronounced: "mesh-oog-ena"): Crazy

NOVAH KAHASHA SAMIN (pronounced: "no-vah smohkd sam-in"): Brine-cured salmon, thinly sliced and cold

RUSH-IN DRESSING (pronounced: "rush-in dress-ing"): Similar to 1000 Island dressing but less sweet and a bit spicier

SHMITZEL (pronounced: "shni-tzel"): Thin slice of meat, breaded and fried

SHMEER (pronounced: "shmeer"): A spreadable layer of cream cheese

TREIF (pronounced: "tray-f"): This term is used only on this page because we don't offer it...at least as WE define it. Generally, treif encompasses pork products and shellfish. All our meat products are beef, lamb, chicken, and turkey, but are NOT certified as "Kosher." Also, please note many of our meals mix milchik (dairy) and fleishig (meat) together, which is not kosher either. You might say, we're "Kosher-style."
